MEMORANDUM FOR CHAIRMAN, PERSONNEL SECURITY COMMITTEE, IG/CM(P)

THRU: Executive Secretary

SUBJECT: Security Educators Seminar and SAES Progress Report

Preparations are well advanced for our Security Educators Seminar which will open on 2 November at Quantico. Attached is a copy of the latest agenda. For further information, I have also enclosed a copy of the letter we are sending to attendees.

Following a run-down on the Seminar, I also want to offer a brief preview of the SAES agenda once that week is behind us.

The Seminar: Regarding the agenda, the only significant question mark remaining is the Keynote speaker. Our FBI representative is working on a senior FBI speaker. He believes that Judge Sessions is a possibility.

We have organized the Seminar around three training methodologies: Face-to-Face Communications, Audiovisual Production and the Printed Word. There will be less security subject matter than in earlier years, but all agency representatives were in agreement that training methods should be our predominant focus.

A highlight of the week will be Thursday dinner and address by Tom Clancy (Hunt for the Red October, etc.). This will be held in the Academy's large dining hall, after the regular dinner hour, to accommodate additional attendance since we've had a lot of interest from within the Bureau and elsewhere.

I hope that you and members of your staff will be able to attend at least parts of the week's events. That naturally includes the Clancy dinner (cost for the Marriott-catered meal is $10.00). I have asked the CIA rep to the Subcommittee to coordinate with your office on arrangements.

Post Seminar: While the Seminar naturally preoccupies our efforts at this time of year, once it's over we will be pursuing our larger agenda regarding the President's action items and the overall problem of security education resources and products. We continue to look to you and your office for guidance in framing and implementing this agenda.

I have attached a copy of our status report of last June, since Jerry hasn't had a chance to look it over. The immediate actions projected are all completed or underway: The DoDSI updated products catalog is printed, the Subcommittee Handbook is underway at DOE, the Speakers List is almost completed and the Seminar of course is imminent.

The larger questions which I want the Subcommittee to address after the Seminar include:

Have we "captured" (in the catalog or handbook) all available security education and training products?

What additional products are needed?

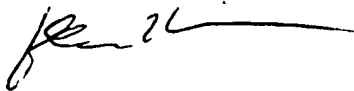

Are information and products being disseminated to everyone who needs them? And if -- or rather since -- not, how can we rectify that?

Related to the dissemination question is the question of future Seminars and how to best meet the need for "training the trainers." It has been suggested that SAES offer more than one Seminar per year. But can member agencies lend the necessary time and effort by Subcommittee participants? And -- a prior question -- is the Seminar the best or the only vehicle to meet this need? This question and some possible alternatives are addressed in the attached Report.

I plan to raise all these issues with the Subcommittee after the Seminar in November. We would naturally appreciate your comments.

Again, please visit the Seminar if you can. I will provide you with the final agenda when it is ready. Please contact me or the CIA representative with any questions regarding arrangements or directions.

Sincerely,

JOHN T. MILLER
Chairman, SAES
